

Brewing up versatility for Craft Breweries & Distilleries focused on complete project delivery

Wright Process Systems has the construction experience and engineering expertise to build your new craft brewery or distillery from the ground up. Where some companies provide the brewery or distillery alone, Wright Process can go further to help across the entire project: We can design/build entire projects; we install separately purchased systems; we can optimize existing systems; and we can serve as a general contractor to handle construction, permitting, and overall project coordination.

Wright Process Systems: Your craft brewery and distillery process integrators

Our brewing and distilling specialties include:

- Design/build installation of complete breweries and distilleries
- Full installation-only services for other manufacturers' systems
- General construction for trade and building work
- Explosion-proof, intrinsically-safe systems
- Special formulation systems including infused, coffee-based, carbonated, and hot-serve products
- Weight and volumetric blend/batch systems
- Media and membrane filtration, separation and clarification
- Cellar processes – fermenters and bright tanks
- Packaging processes – bottle, keg, can, bag, and pouch filling
- Material handling – case to pallets
- Hot, cold, blended, and regenerated liquor (water) systems
- Grain-handling and milling systems, including spent grain
- CIP, COP, and single-use sanitation systems
- Automation and controls integration
- CO2 distribution and recovery
- Full grounding and spark-mitigation systems
- Utilities – steam, condensate, compressed air, chilled water, refrigeration, water, waste water, nitrogen, bulk chemical distribution, hose stations, wash sinks, and more
- USDA, FDA, and local food safety regulation expertise

Committed to your culture

Some brewers want fully manual systems so they can hand-perfect their brews. Some distillers want fully automated high-proof blending, to assure safety and consistency. Wright Process takes the individual nature of each customer to heart, and translates the culture of your business into real manufacturing means and methods.

Wright Process Systems is your partner in process system success
